They're not too young to talk about race!
		ţ.
0	1	2	3		4	5	6+
-	Children as young as two years use race to reason about people's behaviors. (Hirschfeld, 2008) Young children notic king about race will en ne. Silence about race	ncourage racial bias	in children,	en peak d 5. 8 ) ts often but the	By five, Black and Latinx children in research settings show no preference toward their own groups compared to Whites; White children at this age remain strongly biased in favor of whiteness. (Dunham et al, 2008)	By kindergarten, children show many of the same racial attitudes that adults in our culture hold— they have already learned to associate some groups with higher status than others. ( Kinzler , 2016 )	Explicit conversations with 5–7 year olds about interracial friendshin can dramatically improve their racial attitudes in as little as a single week. ( Bronson &amp; Merryman, 2009 )
families can p develop positi	n conclusions based on lay a powerful role in ve attitudes about race e just future—but only	helping children of e and diversity and	all ages skills to	<ul><li>Here are so</li><li>Teaching</li><li>Raising R</li><li>Embrace</li></ul>	earning of your own to ome good places to seel Tolerance — tolerance.or Race Conscious Children - Race — embracerace.org	k information and train rg — raceconscious.org
© 2018 • Update The Children's C	d Feb 28 2018 ommunity School Street, Philadelphia PA 19143			<ul> <li>Embrace</li> <li>Teaching</li> <li>AORTA (</li> <li>Fortify Control</li> </ul>	Race — embracerace.org for Change — teachingfo Cooperative — aorta.coop ommunity Health (CA) –	brchange.org	00